 - i. JDC Heating and Cooling are the best.
 - ii. We had both of our systems go out. One in the attic and one in the basement this past year.
 - iii. Josh will take care of you. He is honest, decent and reasonable.

 - i. The cost is a little over $21K, including adding ductwork. They handled from getting a permit from the city to the inspection at the end. Responsive and professional! I like their service. But I thought their price was high, while my husband said the price was reasonable.
 - ii. I just googled on nextdoor.com about installing central AC, "A Comfort Service" was mentioned by several people in our neighborhood. You can compare.

 - i. They were very professional, snaking things through closets and up through the sloping plaster ceilings.
 - ii. We created zoned air conditioning between the second and third floors. We chose not to do the first floor, as it rarely gets too hot there.

- 1. Project: Install high velocity air conditioning
 - a. Kimo Jung 214 Tennyson
 - b. Date of Service:
 - c. Comments
 - i. They aren't cheap (is anyone?) but they do excellent work and really provide great service.
 - ii. The same technician comes twice a year ("Pat Z."). We trust him and he knows our home (systems) well. I believe he really cares about us.
 - iii. They installed a Mitsubishi mini-split (heat and A/C) five years ago. It's performed well. Installation was minimally disruptive. We got the extended warranty. When a problem part failed, they replaced the whole machine. Wahl pushed Mitsubishi on our behalf.
 - iv. They aren't cheap but they perform at a high level. No corners cut. We appreciate their high standards.

 - a. We have had an excellent experience with Climatech. They installed a Mitsubishi Heat pump and two wall mounted units in the two rooms of our house that weren't covered by our central HVAC.
 - b. We love the unit though we had one technical problem related to the structure of our house that they effectively addressed.
 - c. They are easy to work with and very responsive.
